Equal Justice Under Law' Makes Your Editor Burn

Your editor read an item in the "Tax Report" column of yesterday's Wall Street Journal and promptly caught fire.

As our readers know, your editor in the 1960s took clear to the United States Supreme Court an Internal Revenue Service ruling that money spent to circulate state-wide petitions concerning the Arkansas sales tax was non-deductible—and I lost.

The IRS held that merely circulating petitions (1955 and 1967) to put a question on the general election ballot so the people could vote on it was "influencing legislation," therefore non-deductible.

The expenditures were for attorney fees, printing of the petitions, and fees to petition circulators at 10c per signature as set forth in Arkansas court decisions. I made no claim for deduction of state-wide television costs because then I was arguing the question and was "influencing legislation."

But the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals ruled harshly that even the bare business of circulating a petition was "influencing legislation."

Now I read in the Wall Street Journal that the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals has just overturned an IRS ruling that a $80,850 political contribution to reform candidates in Louisiana is subject to gift tax.

I was "influencing legislation" in attempting to get a popular vote—but it's O.K. to give money to a candidate for public office. If I don't like these apples, can you blame me?

The WSJ report said:

"The court agreed with the taxpayer that the expenditure was an investment intended to help the state's lagging economy by changing those governing it."

Precisely what I was trying to do for Hope—which in the 1950s suffered trade loss to Texarkana because of Arkansas' ever-climbing sales tax rate.

If I may speak frankly, it makes a difference to the courts whether the customer is an editor or a candidate.

I had the misfortune not to be running for any public office.

Pay Board's Once Solid Labor Bloc Is Now Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board's once-solid bloc of labor members has split for the first time, bogging down business members' efforts to approve a trainmen's contract that would ease railroad work rules.

After two days of debate the board failed twice Wednesday to give the contract either full or partial approval, then put off further consideration until next Tuesday.

Each time, the votes of Pay Board members representing either the United Auto Workers or the International Association of Machinists would have provided the margin of victory.

Vietnamese Start New Push North of Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese paratroopers, rangers and armored troops pushed through rubber plantation country 40 to 50 miles northwest of Saigon today in a new offensive.

The South Vietnamese command said 10,000 to 15,000 men were taking part in the drive which began last Saturday several miles south of the Michelin plantation, the country's largest and once a Viet Cong stronghold.

Few North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been encountered. South Vietnamese headquarters said that in the biggest clash to date, a ranger unit killed 10 of the enemy Wednesday evening at a cost of one ranger killed and four wounded.

Military sources said the purpose of the drive is to keep enemy forces off balance and disrupt any plans for an offensive in the area during the Tet celebration of the lunar new year, which begins Feb. 15.

At the northern end of the country, just south of Da Nang, Vietnamese infantrymen killed 10 enemy in an operation launched after a militia outpost was shelled Tuesday. Headquarters said three government troops were killed and five wounded in the clash.

The South Vietnamese reported 22 small-scale enemy attacks in the past 24 hours, continuing a so-called high point of enemy activity into the 11th day.

In the air war, U.S. B-52s hit along the western side of South Vietnam's central highlands for the fourth day today, keeping up their campaign to disrupt enemy forces believed to be preparing for an offensive next month.

Informed sources said other raids were flown against enemy bases areas on the Laotian side of the border.

While most of the ground action in South Vietnam's 2nd Military Region at present is taking place on the Binh Dinh coastal plain to the east, senior U.S. officials expect an enemy drive in the highlands, possibly timed to coincide with President Nixon's trip to Peking next month.

Sources at the Pentagon said Wednesday that elements of two divisions were believed to be moving south through Laos, from near the demilitarized zone toward the triborder region.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker said today that enemy forces were making new efforts in the central highlands and in the 1st Military Region to the north.

Military Cargo Will Be Handled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Pacific Maritime Association has reversed its decision against handling military cargo at West Coast ports struck by 13,000 longshoremen.

The Pentagon told the PMA its original plan was contrary to the best interests of national defense.

In another development Wednesday, the PMA and the striking International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union agreed to resume negotiations no later than Jan. 31. Contract talks were broken off Monday.

PMA president Edmund Flynn said cancellation of Tuesday's order to discontinue handling military cargo after this week would give a bargaining advantage to the longshoremen. During the walkout, strikers in the San Francisco Bay area are earning about 30 per cent of normal wages by handling military cargo, Flynn said.

But the executive committee of the PMA, which represents 120 West Coast shipping and stevedore firms, agreed quickly to the handling of military cargo after a telegram from the Pentagon Wednesday, Flynn said.

The telegram was sent by Barry J. Shillito, assistant secretary of defense, Flynn said.

Pacific ports handle an estimated 75 per cent of Southeast Asia-bound military cargo.

"Interference with the movement of essential defense cargo by ocean transportation would seriously jeopardize the efficient discharge of the responsibilities of the Department of Defense and thus imperil the national safety," Shillito told the PMA.

Flynn said the PMA had been

"of the opinion that military controlled vessels and Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports could be used for shipment of military cargo normally moving through West Coast ports."

The PMA action, Flynn said, "was intended solely to equalize the economic imbalance created in favor of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union by the large earnings available to longshoremen working military cargo during the strike."

Jumbo Birthday Party

By JOHN VINOCUR

Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — A millionaire art dealer flew 735 friends and clients from New York to Paris today for a weekend-long $250,000 birthday party.

"If I had any sensibility or good taste, I'd be embarrassed," said Reese Palley.

"To hell with that," he said on the steps of Reese Palley No. 1, one of two Boeing 747s he chartered for his 50th birthday.

"If playing along with this kind of megalomaniac joke is what it takes to get to Paris for a weekend, then I'm ready 53 times a year," said one of Palley's guests.

"Reese is actually a nice guy or so they tell me." "Listen here," Palley said, "nobody turns down this kind of trip. A guy came up to me in the airport and said, 'Can I come along.' I said if you got a passport sure. We stuffed him in somewhere."

The planes took off Wednesday from John F. Kennedy Airport shortly after 10 p.m. About 2 hours and 20 minutes later, at 35,000 feet and at 45 west latitude and 43 north longitude—almost midway across the Atlantic—Palley cut his 1½-foot-wide 50th birthday cake. His guests drank champagne after a flet mignon dinner.

In Paris, 30 buses brought the party-goers to their hotel, where 370 rooms were reserved for them. The round of parties was starting Thursday evening.

The cost was not clear, but Palley said, "All I know is that I wrote checks for $250,000. I'm sure of that. But I figure somewhere along the line I'll get it refunded."

Palley said the idea for the trip came to him last summer and that he very quickly found virtually everybody he knew willing to go along with him.

U.S. Peace Delegate Back Home

PARIS (AP) — The chief U.S. delegate to the Vietnam peace talks, William J. Porter, flew to the United States secretly last weekend and is expected to go to Washington for consultations before returning to Paris next week, the U.S. delegation announced today.

Porter's place at the 141st session of the talks today was taken by his deputy, Hayward Haman.

Delegation spokesman Stephen Ledogar told newsmen that Porter and his wife flew to their home in Massachusetts Sunday "to take care of personal business." Asked whether the ambassador would see officials in Washington about the peace talks, Ledogar replied: "I would be surprised if he did not take a trip to Washington."

Arkla Rate Hike Denied

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Public Service Commission Wednesday denied a request by Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. to immediately increase its rates to industrial customers.

Arkla, however, will be able to put into effect Jan. 28 a rate schedule that it had proposed last Oct. 1. The utility can put the rates into effect under bond, subject to refund later if the PSC determines after further proceedings that the rates are excessive.

Two members of the commission — Pat Mran and Don S. Smith — said that Arkla had failed to show an "immediate and compelling necessity" for putting higher rates into effect immediately.

Arkla has told the PSC that higher rates are necessary so the utility can compete for new gas reserves.

Under the Oct. 1 rate schedule, industries would be charged different rates depending on which of several categories they were in. The rates ranged from 31 cents to 53 cents per thousand cubic feet.

Congress Urged to Reject Political Year Pressures

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged a Democratic Congress today to reject "the intense pressures of a political year" and enact an array of stalled administration measures, an enlarged defense budget and a "new technology program" to promote research and create jobs.

In a 4,000-word State of the Union address, prepared for delivery at a live-broadcast joint session, Nixon said he and Congress should close ranks "in making sure that legislation the nation needs does not become hostage to the political interest of any party or nation."

The President, an announced candidate for a second term, said he wants a bigger defense budget and a "new technology program" to encourage research, create jobs and make American industry more competitive abroad.

He promised to unveil later in the year a plan to finance public schools without burdening the property-tax system.

Nixon's delivery of the message coincided with the beginning of his fourth year in office.

Otherwise, Nixon said little about new initiatives but stressed instead that Congress should act on "more than 90 major administration proposals" such as welfare reform, government reorganization and revenue sharing that have been hanging fire for a year or longer.

In a companion 15,000-word written State of the Union document, the chief executive warned over his past arguments on behalf of the pending bills.

In his written presentation, Nixon said his planned visits this year to Communist China and the Soviet Union "will mean not that our differences have disappeared or will disappear in the near future." The important thing, he said, "is that we talk about these differences rather than fight about them."

"It would be a serious mistake," he continued, "to say that nothing can come of our expanded communications with Peking and Moscow. But it would also be a mistake to expect too much too quickly."

Campaign Spending Now Up to Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says the campaign-spending bill, hailed on and off Capitol Hill as heralding an end to secrecy about giving and taking political cash, meets President Nixon's objectives for reform.

A few hours after Congress sent the bipartisan compromise legislation to the White House Wednesday, deputy presidential press secretary Gerald L. Warren said he expects Nixon will sign it into law expeditiously.

This would mean America would have the first presidential campaign spending limit in its history, new political-financing disclosure rules covering all federal office seekers, and the most sweeping election reform law in half a century.

It would end "the short, unhappy life of the TV blitz," said Russell Hemenway, head of the reform-seeking National Committee for an Effective Congress, and would be "a crucial first step toward cleansing politics of the secrecy, duplicity and special interest influence which has sown widespread cynicism and doubt among the American people."

Reform advocates on both sides of the House's political aisle rose to applaud the goals of the Senate-approved compromise Wednesday. Then the congressmen passed it 334-19.

Under the bill's media-spending formula, a presidential candidate's radio-TV budget this fall would be restricted to $8.4 million—representing a six-cent broadcast advertising share of each dime that the bill would allow for electronic, newspaper, magazine and outdoor ads and paid telephone campaigns.

The all-media spending ceiling would be 10 cents per potential voter—nationwide for the presidency, statewide for the Senate and districtwide for the House. There would be no over-all limit imposed on a candidate's total campaign spending.

The legislation would cover, instead, what are considered to be the most expensive and enforceable categories. In addition, while there would be no top on what others can contribute to a candidate's campaign, there is a limit set on what a person can spend on his election drive: $50,000 for the presidency or vice presidency, $35,000 for the Senate and $25,000 for the House.

Thinks MIGS Trying to Divert Action

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military officials say the reason North Vietnam's MIG jet fighters are coming out more aggressively these days may be an effort to divert American planes from blasting Communist supply lines in Laos.

If so, the North Vietnamese have had some success as a result of these bolder air feints, even though MIG fire is credited with knocking down only one American F4 Phantom jet during recent operations.

"This harassment does divert some of our efforts that would go into interdicting the Ho Chi Minh trail," a senior officer said.

The North Vietnamese MIGs are mounting their bolder sorties at a time when American air power in Southeast Asia is down to about one quarter of what it was before U.S. control began in 1969.

Veteran U.S. flying officers said that expansion of North Vietnam's radar gives the MIG force some initial advantage.

"With their ground control radar, they can see us when we can't see them," a command pilot said.

SW Bell Planning to Expand as Hope Grows

Predicting continued telephone growth in Hope and Arkansas, Southwestern Bell will carry out a record construction program in the state this year.

"We'll spend almost $45 million to expand and improve communications services," Manager Jack Bayles said. "These dollars will be spent in Hope and some 100 other cities, towns and rural areas we serve in Arkansas."

Last year in Hope Southwestern Bell's gross expenditures in new telephone equipment exceeded $250,000.

Bayles said Hope gained about 350 telephones during 1971, ending the year with 7,260 phones in service.

"This compares with a total of only 4,110 phones just a decade ago," he continued. "We think this telephone development is a good indicator of the growth and progress Hope has enjoyed."

Hope telephone customers average making more than 12,000 local and long distance calls each day.

In the Hope area, 84 men and women work for Southwestern Bell, earning an annual payroll of more than $469,000.

Statewide, Southwestern Bell served some 667,000 telephones at the end of 1971, an increase of 41,000 over the previous year. The company expects to have 1 million phones in service in Arkansas by 1980.

5 Americans Killed in Battle

SAIGON (AP) — Five Americans were reported killed in action and 26 were reported wounded in the Indochina war during the second week of 1972, the U.S. Command said today in its weekly casualty summary. Eight Americans died from nonhostile causes.

The number of killed was about the weekly average for the past three months, and the number of wounded was about half the weekly average.

However, the number of South Vietnamese reported killed last week was the highest in a month, while the number of wounded was the highest in three months. Both increases apparently were due to a sharp increase in enemy attacks in the past 10 days.

The South Vietnamese command said 390 of its troops were killed and 819 were wounded.

The allied commands reported killing 1,034 enemy during the week, up from 800 the previous week.

The number of Americans missing or captured remained at 1,492.

The allied commands have now reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,637 killed in action, 302,519 wounded, 10,047 dead from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—138,476 killed in action, 299,728 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—791,509 killed.

Full-employment Budget Is Spending Without Lid

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A full-employment budget, President Nixon's bookkeeping device, is spending what you think you ought to be making.

But don't try it on your personal budget unless you're prepared for a bad credit rating and bankruptcy. No sensible businessman would operate that way, either. His profits would turn into losses and his business would go under.

But if you're the government of the United States, spending what you think you ought to be making is not only possible, but under Nixon it is desirable. The budget he sends to Congress next Monday will reflect that desire.

The full-employment concept works for the government because it owns the printing presses that crank out the dollar bills that everyone spends. And, besides, it has a spotless credit rating.

A full-employment budget is deficit spending with a theoretical lid. The lid is what the government thinks it ought to be making. That, say the economists, is what the Internal Revenue Service would collect if the economy were working well—if everyone had a job and business were running at maximum efficiency.

But that's too ideal, say Nixon's economists. They define full employment as about 4 percent joblessness since there are lots of people who can never find work. Getting below that 4 percent also has a catalytic effect on the inflation rate.

So what must be done is decide how much the government ought to be making from taxpayers if there were 4 percent unemployment. This "full-employment revenue" dictates how much the government can spend. If the economy is bad and joblessness is high, as it is now, this means a big actual deficit.

In fiscal 1972, that's what is happening to Nixon. The deficit is going to soar to about $40 billion, highest since 1945.

Nixon's budget that will go to Congress Monday will retain the full-employment concept. It will be balanced at full-employment revenues—and contain a big actual deficit. But why use such a technique in the first place?

To Nixon, it is a self-fulfilling prophecy. He says if you spend what you think you ought to be making, you eventually should be making what you are spending.

In theory, this is so because big actual deficits are stimulative. The budget is translated into federal projects; federal projects into jobs. Jobs mean a snappier economy and that means more tax money.

Thus, the circle is complete without touching off inflation. Former President Lyndon B. Johnson rolled up a $25-billion deficit in fiscal 1968. Nixon's deficits are bigger. But his administration still blames Johnson for triggering an inflationary boom, contending there was no need for deficit spending when the economy was at full employment in 1968.

In other words, the Nixon people say, the Johnson administration spent more than it thought it ought to be making.

Would Name Storms for Senators

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricanes should be named after U.S. senators instead of women, a Miami feminist has told a top-level gathering of the nation's weathermen.

And Roxcy Bolton says she's rather partial to dubbing the storms "him-icanes," too. She says hurricane sounds like "her-icane."

"I'm sick and tired of hearing that 'Cheryl' was no lady as she devastated such and such a town," or 'Betsy annihilated this or that,'" said Mrs. Bolton, a former vice president of the National Organization of Women—NOW.

"As long as people can name her-icanes after us it's just another way of putting women down."

Her proposal to the annual National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration hurricane season planning conference received a chilly reception Wednesday, but still not the frigid greeting she received when she first broached the idea to the scientific gathering three years ago.

Dr. Karl Johannessen, associate director of the National Weather Service, told Mrs. Bolton that naming the often-deadly storms after women was nothing personal. But he balked at her suggestion to name them after senators.

"Would you want to cast a slur on United States Senators?" he asked.

He then suggested the names of men be used one year, the names of women the next in an alternating system.

"Mr. Johannessen, we've already been 'blessed' for 18 years—enough is enough," Mrs. Bolton countered.

Rockefeller Has Beard

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller appeared Wednesday at a news conference with a full beard.

The former chief executive told newsmen that the beard, which still is in the stubby stage, was begun recently as part of a contest with his son, Winthrop Paul, who also is bearded.

went on:

"Because of rising research-and-development costs, because of increases in military and civilian pay, and because of the need to proceed with new weapons systems, my budget for the coming fiscal year will provide for an increase in defense spending."

Details will be announced Monday when Nixon submits his budget for the 1973 book-keeping year that begins July 1.

That budget presumably will disclose some details, too, of the President's plan for "major initiatives to stimulate more imaginative use of America's great capacity for technological advance, and to direct it toward improving the quality of life for every American."

ate director of the National Weather Service, told Mrs. Bolton that naming the often-deadly storms after women was nothing personal. But he balked at her suggestion to name them after senators.

Districting Plan Challenge

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge J. Smith Henley indicated Wednesday he probably would try a lawsuit challenging the latest state legislative apportionment plan.

Atty. Gen. Ray Thornton told Henley during a pretrial hearing in U.S. District Court that the lawsuit should be heard by a three-judge federal panel.

Thornton argued the three-judge panel would hold up even if it was determined later that the three-judge court had not been needed, while a case tried by a single judge might have to be tried again if an appeals court later found that three judges should have heard the case.

William T. Kelly, chairman of the Pulaski County Republican Committee, filed the suit August 20, alleging the plan adopted July 19 by the state Board of Apportionment was unconstitutional because Senate districts crossed county lines and there were 26 multimember House districts.

Mrs. Onassis to Drop Case

NEW YORK (AP) — An attorney for Jacqueline Onassis says she intends to withdraw her claim for monetary damages from free-lance photographer Ronald Galella.

Galella, who has made something of a career of photographing the former first lady and her two children, sued Mrs. Onassis for $1.3 million charging he was harassed by Secret Service agents who broke his camera.

Mrs. Onassis filed a $1.5 million countersuit, claiming that Galella was the harasser. The suit, on four grounds, would total $6 million damages.

Simon H. Rifkind, Mrs. Onassis' lawyer, told a U.S. District Court hearing Wednesday that she "intends to withdraw her counterclaim for monetary damages." He did not elaborate.

The hearing was held before Judge Irving Ben Cooper to arrange for action on pretrial motions and the setting of a trial date. He indicated the case could come to trial in February.

Galella is under orders from Cooper to stay at least 100 yards from Mrs. Onassis' Fifth Avenue apartment and 50 yards from the family when they leave the building.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Kopycats," which ABC proposes to use in its new Wednesday night "Comedy Hour" almost every other week, has a very simple format. For 60 minutes, a sextet of skilled impressionists mimics famous people, past and present.

The idea was tried by the same producers for a couple of shows on NBC's "Music Hall" last season. Whether it is strong enough or can produce enough variety to survive through a half dozen shows is something else.

In the premiere this week, Rich Little, George Kirby, Marilyn Michaels, Frank Gorshin, Charlie Callas and Joe Baker impersonated just about all the standard characters—Jimmy Stewart, Bogart, Cagney, Boris Karloff, Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, W. C. Fields. Actually, the only familiar impressions left are Edward G. Robinson and Ed Sullivan.

Some of the impressions were better than others. Rich Little turned in excellent caricatures of President Nixon, George Burns and Raymond Burr, but his Bogart and W. C. Fields needed work. Kirby was funny doing Mae West and even more amusing imitating Flip Wilson as Geraldine.

The only woman in the regulars is Marilyn Michaels who in one number ran through the styles of seven girl singers, from Rosemary Clooney to Diana Ross, and caught each of them. Her impressions of Barbara Streisand and Judy Garland were uncanny—she not only had their voices but their body movements and hands.

The series, taped in England, called in a couple of guest stars for obscure reasons. Robert Young didn't even try to imitate anybody and Steve Lawrence demonstrated that he sings much better than he impersonates John Garfield.

An hour of "The Kopycats" may be fun occasionally but a steady diet might be a bit of a bore.

The program was followed by "The Persuaders," now in a new time period. Either the show looks better early on Wednesdays than late on Fridays or it has shaken down a bit since the beginning of the season.

The series is a sort of comedy spin-off on the James Bond theme, and follows the weekly adventures of a Brooklyn tough guy—Tony Curtis—and a British lord—Roger Moore—as they save the empire and rescue maidens, but mostly exchange jaunty not-very-funny wisecracks and trade punches with villains.

This week they were breaking up a Russian spy ring. The plot was as preposterous as usual but there was some rather amusing dialogue.

ECOLOGICAL MUSIC
ST. LOUIS (AP) — An Ecological Concert, consisting of music influenced by the earth's environment, will be presented next May 14 by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

The program will be Vivaldi's "Tempesto del Mare Concerto," Rorem's "Eagles," Holst's Suite from "The Planets," Debussy's "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun," Schickel's "A Zoo Called Earth" and Respighi's "The Pines of Rome." Peter Schickel's "A Zoo Called Earth" was commissioned and premiered at a St. Louis Zoo concert in June 1971.

Helen and Sue Bottel The Generation Rap

A CRY FOR HELP
Dear Helen and Sue:
I'm 16, black, and need help—fast. If it doesn't come soon, I will have made the decision and committed suicide—I even have a razor blade in my room. Sometimes I pick it up and think how it would be to just not be around any more. But first I thought I'd write to you and see if anyone still cares.

The big question of course, is always WHY? I don't even know myself, but I'll try to tell you:

1. I have no boy friends.
2. I have very few girl friends—no one to talk to at all, not even to eat lunch with.
3. I find my home life increasingly unbearable.

4. At school, it seems as if everyone (white) is socially against me or prejudiced—yes, even my teachers. My own people (black) consider me a "Tom" or "oreo," so they don't like me.
5. Worst of all, I've kept all my problems and feelings (mostly of hate) inside me. It's almost like having a time bomb in there, and I'm quietly waiting for it to go off...Writing this letter—you don't know how much courage it took. I'm so afraid it will just be tossed away. Maybe you get so many letters you won't even see this one.

Don't suggest that I talk to my mother or family. She's changed so much I find it strange to say "Mom." She has her own friends. When she notices me, it's to give me a beating. I get one almost every day, with two, sometimes four belts. I have no sisters, and my brothers do things that get me in trouble—that's why I get so many beatings.

Everywhere, I find the doors closed and locked. Even the door to God. I find myself becoming more and more estranged from God as my problems increase. I know it's wrong, but I can't help it.

Okay, so I'm a self-pitying dummy. But all I know is I need someone—anyone—who will understand. —NOT KIDDING
Dear Not Kidding:

Because your letter came from our home town, I've already asked our local paper to put a PERSONAL IN GENERATION

GALA FOR PONSSELLE

Harry B. Cummings, president of the company, said, "Mrs. Ponselle has for a lifetime given unselfishly of her time and talents in behalf of the development of opera. Additionally, she has worked diligently in the cause of the American operatic artist."
Stars who will sing are Marilyn Horne, Lili Chookasian, Sherrill Milnes, Robert Merrill, Ezio Flagello and Jerome Hines.
The concert will be a benefit, with $25,000 hoped to be raised for the opera's endowment. It will be followed by a champagne reception.

RAP, so that we can write to you. If you'd have given us your name and address, you would have already heard from us.
I know of an organization that I think will be just great for you. The kids are friendly and involved—and they really care. It's called "Student Life" and there's a branch in almost every high school. Please join. —SUE
Dear N.K.:

And—if you haven't already—please send us your name and address on a stamped envelope—We'd like to get in touch—and there's another reason too: Prepare yourself for a deluge of letters, N.K., from our great readers who always prove how much they care. Their correspondence is guaranteed to bring almost anyone out of the miseries. —HELEN NOTE TO READERS: Send your letters to "Not Kidding" care of GENERATION RAP (this newspaper) and we'll forward them to her. —Hand S.

NOTE FROM BOTH OF US: Please, PLEASE, if you have a desperate problem, include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Think how it feels to get a suicide note and know there's no quick way to reach the writer! —SUE AND HELEN

Questions and Answers

By GLENDA BOZEMAN

Q. My husband just suffered a severe heart attack. This is his third and our doctor says he will never be able to work again. My question is WHEN should he file for disability benefits?

A. Although no payment can be made until the seventh full month of disability, your husband should file his claim right away so that processing can begin and his checks will not be delayed.

Q. I am permanently disabled and will never be able to work again. I became disabled in an automobile accident three months ago. Since I cannot receive monthly payments until I have been disabled over six months, why should I be in a hurry to file my claim?

A. You need to file your claim as soon as possible because it will take two to three months to process it and if you wait until you have been off work seven months to file, your first check will be late.

If you file now, perhaps we have your first check to you on time at the end of the seventh month.

Q. I understand that there is a six month waiting period for disability payments. What I do not understand is, will I eventually be paid for these six months?

A. You are correct about the six month waiting period. This means no payment is ever made for the first six full months of disability, not even retroactive payments.

Q. My doctor has told me I will never be able to work again. I have been to the social security office and filed for disability. I was told that I could not be paid for the first six months; will I be paid retroactively for these months later on?

A. No. There is no payment made for the first six full months of disability, not even retroactively.

Q. I am too disabled to work and even too disabled to go to the social security office to file a claim. What should I do?

A. You should telephone the social security office. Your claim can probably be completed by telephone and mailed to you for your signature. This leads me to say that whatever one's business is with a social security office, he should telephone first to see whether it can be handled by telephone.

Wants More for Education TV

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — State Reps. Roger V. Logan Jr. of Harrison and Steve A. Smith of Huntsville said in a joint statement Tuesday they had asked Gov. Dale Bumpers to include in his call of a special legislative session proposed legislation to provide statewide transmission of educational television.

Logan said if the governor did not include the legislation in his call, he and Smith would introduce the legislation in the 1973 regular session.

Smith said ETV was reaching only 3 per cent of the population at present.

Merry Mexican Named AP Athlete of Year

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "Oh, man! So many good things have been happening to me that I just can't believe it!"

Lee Trevino, the merry Mexican from a poverty background, who added a dash of fresh color and a new dimension of pro golf, was talking about his selection as The Associated Press Athlete of the Year for 1971.

The 32-year-old Trevino, who made that lightning, unprecedented sweep of the American, Canadian and British Open titles, was named Wednesday in a nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

He amassed 118 votes to win by a wide margin over baseball's Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals and Roberto Clemente of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, who got 31 votes apiece, and Kareem Abdul Jabbar of basketball's champion Milwaukee Bucks, who was fourth with 24.

"You've got to be thrilled any time something like this happens to you, particularly when it comes from an outfit like this, where so many people all over the country are voting for you," Trevino said before today's first round in the $150,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open, in which he is a heavy favorite.

"I called my wife and told her, 'Honey, so many things are happening to me I just don't believe it.'"

The honor was the latest in a series of national awards for the talkative, colorful ex-Marine who burst on the national scene only four years ago and last season established himself as one of the game's greatest players and biggest gate attractions.

"I was even named sports personality of the year in England," he said. "Can you imagine that?"

Earlier, he had been named Player of the Year by the Professional Golfers Association and had been selected Athlete of the Year by a national magazine and again by a national sports newspaper.

Trevino, the grandson of a Dallas gravedigger and a former $35-a-week assistant at an El Paso, Tex., driving range, started slowly last year but finished with one of the most successful seasons in pro golf history.

He missed several tournaments because of the illness of his mother—she died later in the year—and admitted: "My mind wasn't on the game."

He wasn't eligible for the Tournament of Champions but started his drive by winning the $60,000 Tallahassee Open the same week.

He added a couple of top 10 finishes in the next few weeks, then started a fantastic string. On successive weeks he won the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic, missed a playoff by a single stroke at Atlanta and lost in a playoff for the Kemper title in Charlotte, N.C.

The U.S. Open was next and he stormed sta'd old Merion in Philadelphia with a flair and flourish, beating the feared Jack Nicklaus in a playoff and hammering it up with a toy snake act.

He had a letdown in Cleveland the next week, then came from well back in Montreal and beat Art Wall in a playoff for the Canadian National Open.

Next was the British Open at Royal Birkdale, a seaside links that almost foiled him. But he hung on to win, despite a double-bogey seven on the 71st hole, and completed one of the game's classic sweeps.

He had boycotted the Masters for the past two seasons.

He presented his first "game ball" to Corky Calhoun, one of the stars of 10th-ranked Penn's 74-64 revenge victory over 15th-rated Villanova.

The 6-foot-7, 210-pound Calhoun, one of the tallest backcourtmen in the nation, earned the ball by scoring 20 points on nine of 13 field goal attempts and two of four free throws. He also had four assists and four rebounds.

Penn, seeking to avenge last year's 90-47 humiliating setback to Villanova in the NCAA Eastern Regional Tournament, had worked the past week on trying to get the ball inside to Calhoun against the Wildcats' 1-2-2 zone defense. The practice paid off as Calhoun, often a reluctant shooter, played one of the best games of his three-year varsity career.

Actually, Phil Hankinson led the Quakers with 24 points, but Calhoun's scoring outburst and over-all play were the keys.

Penn fell behind by nine points early in the first half, but held the Wildcats to one field goal in the last 10 minutes of the half and pulled ahead for good 32-29 at intermission.

The emotion-packed triumph gave Penn a 10-2 record. Villanova fell to 11-3.

Meanwhile, second-ranked Marquette remained unbeaten, trimming Chicago Loyola 80-70 for its 13th victory of the season and its 66th in a row at the Milwaukee Arena. Jim O'Connell led the Warriors with 26 points.

Despite the victory, Marquette Coach Al McGuire was unhappy. "We're going to have a long talk tomorrow (Thursday)," he said. "We haven't had a meeting in about three years. They're not men yet, they don't show enough fear."

North Carolina, rated third, jumped to a 20-3 lead against Wake Forest and cruised to a 92-77 victory, its 12th in 13 games. Bob McAdoo topped the Tar Heels with 22 points.

Fifth-ranked South Carolina overcame a 17-point deficit for the second consecutive game and ended Niagara's 12-game winning streak with an 80-69 triumph over the Purple Eagles. The Gamecocks' Kevin Joyce poured in 33 points, 26 in the second half, while 7-foot Danny Traylor grabbed 20 rebounds and blocked nine shots.

Florida State, the No. 11 team, posted its ninth successive victory and 14th in 16 games, overwhelming South Alabama 105-72. Rowland Garrett scored a career high 24 points for the Seminoles.

Marshall, rated 16th, whipped Miami, Ohio 81-63, as Randy Noll scored 24 points and grabbed 18 rebounds and Russell Lee tallied 22 points and had 20 rebounds.

Marshall now is 13-2. Abilene Christian hiked its record to 12-2, defeating the Air Force 76-70 with five free throws, including three technicals, in the final minute. Toledo made it 11-2, riddling Bowling Green 76-53 in a Mid-American Conference clash.

Providence, with Marvin Barnes scoring 28 points and hauling in 22 rebounds, won its 10th game in 12 starts, beating Fairfield 87-75.

Elsewhere, it was: Dayton 76, Cincinnati 60; Duke 86, Canisius 58; Clemson 74, Furman 72; Ohio University 88, Virginia Tech 79; North Texas State 74, Wichita State 63; Penn State 83, Gettysburg 53; Pittsburgh 91, Bucknell 87; and The Citadel 86, Arkansas State 48.

Bobby Isaac, the 1970 Grand National champion, in a Dodge; David Pearson, a three-time title holder who is returning to regular competition in a new Ford Torino; and Bobby Allison, who captured eight major races last year and was the No. 2 money winner behind Petty.

The latter included Mark Donohue, perhaps America's top-ranked road racer, who is making his debut in stock cars in an American Motors Matador.

Prime candidates for today's pole position honor included three former winners—Richard Petty, A. J. Foyt and Ray Elder—and a number of crack drivers from the regular NAS-CAR Grand National circuit and from outside it.

The latter included Mark Donohue, perhaps America's top-ranked road racer, who is making his debut in stock cars in an American Motors Matador.

Qualifying runs around the 2.62-mile, eight-turn road course were to begin at 1 p.m., with the first 15 spots in the 44-car starting field up for grabs.

Jones, who won this event in 1967, set the ap record for the course of 113.310 miles per hour in 1970. The former Indianapolis 500 winner from Torrance, Calif. isn't entered this year.

Game Ball Given for First Time

"In 17 years of basketball coaching," said Penn's Chuck Daly, "I never gave a player a game ball."

Daly's streak ended Wednesday night.

Bobby Isaac, the 1970 Grand National champion, in a Dodge; David Pearson, a three-time title holder who is returning to regular competition in a new Ford Torino; and Bobby Allison, who captured eight major races last year and was the No. 2 money winner behind Petty.

The latter included Mark Donohue, perhaps America's top-ranked road racer, who is making his debut in stock cars in an American Motors Matador.

Qualifying runs around the 2.62-mile, eight-turn road course were to begin at 1 p.m., with the first 15 spots in the 44-car starting field up for grabs.

Jones, who won this event in 1967, set the ap record for the course of 113.310 miles per hour in 1970. The former Indianapolis 500 winner from Torrance, Calif. isn't entered this year.

Prime candidates for today's pole position honor included three former winners—Richard Petty, A. J. Foyt and Ray Elder—and a number of crack drivers from the regular NAS-CAR Grand National circuit and from outside it.

Game Ball Given for First Time

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
"In 17 years of basketball coaching," said Penn's Chuck Daly, "I never gave a player a game ball."

Daly's streak ended Wednesday night.

He presented his first "game ball" to Corky Calhoun, one of the stars of 10th-ranked Penn's 74-64 revenge victory over 15th-rated Villanova.

The 6-foot-7, 210-pound Calhoun, one of the tallest backcourtmen in the nation, earned the ball by scoring 20 points on nine of 13 field goal attempts and two of four free throws. He also had four assists and four rebounds.

Penn, seeking to avenge last year's 90-47 humiliating setback to Villanova in the NCAA Eastern Regional Tournament, had worked the past week on trying to get the ball inside to Calhoun against the Wildcats' 1-2-2 zone defense. The practice paid off as Calhoun, often a reluctant shooter, played one of the best games of his three-year varsity career.

Actually, Phil Hankinson led the Quakers with 24 points, but Calhoun's scoring outburst and over-all play were the keys.

Penn fell behind by nine points early in the first half, but held the Wildcats to one field goal in the last 10 minutes of the half and pulled ahead for good 32-29 at intermission.

The emotion-packed triumph gave Penn a 10-2 record. Villanova fell to 11-3.

Meanwhile, second-ranked Marquette remained unbeaten, trimming Chicago Loyola 80-70 for its 13th victory of the season and its 66th in a row at the Milwaukee Arena. Jim O'Connell led the Warriors with 26 points.

Despite the victory, Marquette Coach Al McGuire was unhappy. "We're going to have a long talk tomorrow (Thursday)," he said. "We haven't had a meeting in about three years. They're not men yet, they don't show enough fear."

North Carolina, rated third, jumped to a 20-3 lead against Wake Forest and cruised to a 92-77 victory, its 12th in 13 games. Bob McAdoo topped the Tar Heels with 22 points.

Fifth-ranked South Carolina overcame a 17-point deficit for the second consecutive game and ended Niagara's 12-game winning streak with an 80-69 triumph over the Purple Eagles. The Gamecocks' Kevin Joyce poured in 33 points, 26 in the second half, while 7-foot Danny Traylor grabbed 20 rebounds and blocked nine shots.

Florida State, the No. 11 team, posted its ninth successive victory and 14th in 16 games, overwhelming South Alabama 105-72. Rowland Garrett scored a career high 24 points for the Seminoles.

Marshall, rated 16th, whipped Miami, Ohio 81-63, as Randy Noll scored 24 points and grabbed 18 rebounds and Russell Lee tallied 22 points and had 20 rebounds.

Marshall now is 13-2. Abilene Christian hiked its record to 12-2, defeating the Air Force 76-70 with five free throws, including three technicals, in the final minute. Toledo made it 11-2, riddling Bowling Green 76-53 in a Mid-American Conference clash.

Providence, with Marvin Barnes scoring 28 points and hauling in 22 rebounds, won its 10th game in 12 starts, beating Fairfield 87-75.

Elsewhere, it was: Dayton 76, Cincinnati 60; Duke 86, Canisius 58; Clemson 74, Furman 72; Ohio University 88, Virginia Tech 79; North Texas State 74, Wichita State 63; Penn State 83, Gettysburg 53; Pittsburgh 91, Bucknell 87; and The Citadel 86, Arkansas State 48.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?—A lot, if you can judge these people by the names we know them (top to bottom, left) Doris Day, Lenin, Joe Louis and (right) Kareem Abdul Jabbar. They all changed their names from the originals given above.

Kareem Jabbar by Any Other Name Would Still Score 30 Points a Game

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A rose by any other name, quoth Shakespeare, smells as sweet. It seems to be that way for Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, though it was hardly that way for Muhammad Ali.

Both Abdul-Jabbar and Ali changed their names after they had reached athletic heights. Abdul-Jabbar, formerly known as Lewis Ferdinand Alcindor Jr., switched patronyms last summer. Since then, newspapers, broadcasters, opposing players and fans have generally adopted the change.

It was hardly that way when Cassius Marcellus Clay Jr. told the world that he had become, right before their very eyes, Muhammad Ali.

"I think," said Abdul-Jabbar, "that Clay's transition was harder because he was so much more controversial, what with his stand on the war."

Ali changed his name at the same time, in 1967, that he announced he was a Black Muslim. This was scary for the Establishment press. The Muslims appeared an awesome dark threat to conventional ways of life. (The threat has since diminished a great deal, with the growth of the Black Panthers.) So cynicism and a kind of fear kept many from calling Ali Ali.

Not everyone was pleased or noncommittal about Abdul-Jabbar's change, either. In fact, Abdul-Jabbar's father said, "Well, I didn't want him to change the name. But he is mature and intelligent. It wasn't a rash decision. And he had become a devout Muslim. He was a devout Catholic when he was younger. But I still call him Lewis. It's hard to change after some 20 years."

Both Ali and Abdul-Jabbar said that they were shucking their original appellations because they were "slave-given names." Both wanted a return to their African extractions. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (which translates from the Arabic as "generous" and "servant of Allah" and "powerful") emphasizes, however, that he is a member of the Islamic faith, and is not part of the American "Black Muslim" movement.

Ali and Abdul-Jabbar have probably made the greatest impression on the public with their change of names. Yet they are among scores and scores of athletes, entertainers, authors and political leaders who have changed their names. The reasons are many-fold—for easier headline purposes, for more enticing marquee lettering, to avoid religious prejudice, to get a boxing license when underage, to stay one step ahead of the cops.

Some baseball players include: Connie Mack (Cornelius McGillicuddy), Billy Martin (Alfred Manuel Pesano), Al Simmons (Szymanski), Cass Michaels (Kwietniewski), Eddie Lopat (Lopatynski), Johnny Pesky (Pavskovich), Max Carey (Maximilian Carnarius), Pete Gray (Wyshner), Andy Carey (Nordstrom).

Some champion boxers include: Jack Sharkey (Zukauskas), Joe Louis (Joe Louis Barrow), Battling Levinsky (Barney Lebowitz), Rocky Marciano (Rocco Marchegiano), Joey Maxim (Berardinelli), Tony Zale (Zaleski), Rocky Graziano (Barbella), Sugar Ray Robinson (Walker Smith), Battling Siki (Louis Phal), Jersey Joe Walcott (Arnold Cream), Barney Ross (Rosofsky), Benny Leonard (Leiner), Beau Jack (Sidney Walker), Willie Pep (Papaleo).

World leaders: David Ben-Gurion (Green), Tito (Josip Brozovitch), Stalin (Dzhugashvili), Trotsky (Bronstein), Lenin (Ulyanov), Buddha (Prince Siddhartha), Haile Selassie (Ras Tafari Makonnen).

Entertainers: Jack Benny (Benjamin Kubelsky), George Burns (Nathan Birnbaum), Tony Curtis (Bernard Schwartz), Doris Day (von Kappelhoff), Kirk Douglas (Issur Danielovitch), John Wayne (Marion Michael Morrison), Ringo Starr (Richard Starkey), Fred Astaire (Austerlitz), Cyd Charisse (Tula Finklea), Roy Rogers (Leonard Slye), Richard Burton (Jenkins), Boris Karloff (Pratt), W. C. Fields (Dukensfield), Judy Garland (Frances Gumm), Marilyn Monroe (Norma Jean Mortenson).

Authors: Mark Twain (Samuel Langhorne Clemens), Lewis Carroll (Charles Lutwidge Dodgson), O. Henry (William Sydney Porter), Irving Stone (Tennenbaum). And going to extremes, Mary Ann Evans changes sexes, to George Eliot.

And so we see that a Rose by any other name will sound as Pete.

Wood to Coach With Chargers

By BOB GREENE

Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Willie Wood thinks its time for a black head coach in the National Football League.

He took the first step Wednesday, retiring as a player to become defensive backfield coach with the San Diego Chargers.

"Eventually I would like to move into a head coaching position," Wood said. "I think the time will come when the NFL will have a black coach. This job will help prepare me to take advantage of the opportunity when it comes."

A District of Columbia native, Wood was a quarterback at Southern California, but wasn't selected in the pro football draft following the 1959 season. He wrote a letter to the late Vince Lombardi, then head coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers, and was signed as a free agent.

Three years later, Wood, cavorting from his free safety spot, grabbed off nine interceptions to lead the NFL in that category. In his 12 seasons with the Packers, the 5-foot-10, 190-pounder was considered the surest tackler on the squad and picked off 44 enemy passes for 699 yards and two touchdowns.

"In all honesty, it saddens me to leave after 12 years of establishing such strong friendships in Green Bay," Wood said.

"Four or five years ago I decided I wanted to remain in pro football after my playing days were over."

"I was hoping it would be with Green Bay, since I knew the system there and the personnel."

But the Packers, who have had four straight so-so seasons after forging a dynasty in the NFL from 1960 through 1967, hired a new coach prior to the 1971 season and he brought in his own assistants.

"I sort of felt the guy they had hired as defensive backfield coach would be around for awhile since he built a house in Green Bay," Wood said. "I couldn't wait to see what would happen."

"I felt it would behoove me to look around. So I put out a few feelers that this might be my last playing season."

Wood said several clubs contacted him, but Harland Svare, newly named head coach of the Chargers, came up with a firm offer.

"It's kind of difficult to give up playing after you've been doing it for so long," Wood said. "But I will be going back to California and San Diego, and it's an ideal place to play." "Plus, I felt the Chargers have a nucleus of becoming a very fine ball club," he said. "They have an outstanding offense and if I can help mold the defense, it will be a feather in my cap."

Michael, a Hebrew name, means "Godlike: one who is like God."

TWO WAYS to use your feet in hockey: The St. Louis Blues' Barclay Player, above, gets his foot in the way of the ankle of the Los Angeles Kings' Mike Corrigan (while Blues' goalie Ernie Wakely watches). No penalty was called on the play. Pittsburgh Penguin goalie Les Brinkley, below, gets a leg up on a long shot and makes a save.

Canadiens Post Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For 59 minutes and 56 seconds it looked like the scuffle between Bob Baun and Pierre Bouchard would be the highlight of the game.

But suddenly, there was Henri Richard, sweeping behind the Toronto goal and rifling the puck to big Pete Mahovlich, stationed right in front of the goal.

The big Montreal center swung and missed—but out-battled a defender, got a second chance and cashed it in, slamming in his 15th goal of the season with just two seconds to play to carry the Canadiens to a 1-0 National Hockey League victory over the Maple Leafs Wednesday night.

In other games, Bobby Hull all but singlehandedly gave Chicago a 2-0 victory over California, Vancouver overwhelmed Pittsburgh with five third-period goals en route to a 6-1 runaway, Minnesota ripped Detroit 4-1 and New York clubbed Los Angeles 5-1.

The Leafs, who were involved in the NHL's most recent scoreless contest, last Oct. 27 against Vancouver, lost more than the game.

Midway in the first period, Mike Pelyk was slammed into the boards by Montreal's Rejean Houle and reentered his right knee, knocking him out of the game.

And barely a minute later, referee Wally Harris knocked the Leafs' Rick Ley out of the game. It came when Baun of Toronto and Bouchard of the Canadiens started their brief fistfight.

Bouchard, five inches taller and 15 pounds heavier than Baun, was on his way to a solid victory in the battle when Ley came to the aid of his teammate—and, for his efforts, was slapped with a game misconduct penalty by Harris.

Montreal goalie Ken Dryden turned aside all 32 Toronto shots for the shutout in his first start in 12 games since suffering a back injury Dec. 22.

Tony Esposito of Chicago kicked out all 29 California shots for his fourth shutout of the season while Hull provided the Black Hawks' scoring punch with his 32nd and 33rd goals.

His first came with 1:21 remaining in the second period on a 60-foot slap shot that tore through the glove of Golden Seals' goalie Gilles Meloche. And 27 seconds into the third period, the Golden Jet hit again, this time at the end of a two-on-one break with teammate Chico Maki.

With Vancouver and Pittsburgh tied 1-1 after two periods, Andre Boudrias scored what proved to be the Canucks' winning goal at the 39-second mark of the final frame.

Then came the onslaught—goals in a two-minute span by Wayne Maki, Dale Tallon and Ted Taylor that drove Penguins' goalie Jim Rutherford out of the game.

Minnesota, snapping the Red Wings' eight-game home winning string, their longest in seven years, remained 12 points back of first-place Black Hawks in the West Division.

Lou Nanne, Bill Goldsworthy, Jude Drouin and Charlie Burns tallied for the North Stars while Mickey Redmond averted a Detroit whitewash.

Bill Fairbairn got the only goals the Rangers needed to pull within two points of first-place Boston in the East.

His 11th goal broke a scoreless deadlock at 1:29 of the second period. Then, after Doug Barrie had knotted it for the Kings, Fairbairn struck again, this time with an unassisted marker. Vic Hadfield, Pete Stenkowski and Bruce MacGregor wrapped up the New York romp.

Jet Player Arrested

NEW YORK (AP) — Safety

W. K. Hicks of the New York Jets of the National Football League was arrested Wednesday night and charged with possession of a dangerous weapon, police said. He was seen with an unlicensed gun in his belt at a bar.

Hicks led the Jets in pass interceptions the past two seasons.

Police said they made the arrest after an anonymous caller told them he had seen Hicks at a bar with the gun in his belt.

Hicks has no permit for the loaded .22-calibre gun they found in his possession, police said.

Hicks, whose given names are Wilmer Kenzie, lives near the bar, police said.

Originally from Texarkana, Tex., Hicks attended Texas Southern University. He has been in professional football for eight years. Before he was traded to the Jets, he played with the Houston Oilers.

Pros Looked Like Amateurs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The shooting stars were exploding all over the joint in Utah and, when the blazing ended, it made Memphis' Pros look like amateurs.

Zelmo Beaty, Willie Wise and Red Robbins went on a first-half shooting tear that powered the Utah Stars to a 143-118 American Basketball Association victory over Memphis Wednesday night and enabled them to open a 4½-game lead in the West Division.

In other ABA action, Virginia outlasted Kentucky 138-132, Denver shelled Dallas 116-92 and Carolina edged the Floridians 108-104.

The Pros played the Stars even for the first five minutes and held a 19-17 margin before Beaty & Co. went to work. And when the halftime buzzer signaled an end to their work, the Stars had set a team record for one-half scoring as they took an 80-52 lead into the locker room.

Beaty, playing barely more than that first half, and Charlie Williams of Memphis, shared scoring honors with 28 points apiece. Wise added 23 and Robbins 20 for Utah while George Lehmann had 20 for the Pros.

State Bounced by Citadel

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The Citadel Bulldogs shot a torrid 59 per cent from the floor as they took a convincing 86-48 basketball victory over Arkansas State Wednesday night.

The visitors, trailing 41-14 at the half, committed 33 turnovers and managed to connect on only 37 per cent from the floor.

The Citadel had four players in double figures, with Steve Fishel leading the way with 20 points. Cal Hayslip added 15. John Belcher, 6 feet 9, was the only Arkansas State player in double figures, collecting 19 points, but he led all rebounding with 10.

The Bulldogs kept command all the way, forcing turnovers with a pressure defense, and then going for the percentage shots.

BROWN STAYS

Jim Brown is still far ahead in the all-time rushing statistics among NFL players. He gained 12,312 yards rushing, in nine years, while second place Joe Perry had 9,723 in 16 seasons. Leroy Kelly, in fifth place, is the highest ranking active player.

Congratulations. You just saved $5 by doing your own income tax. And all it cost you was three long, sleepless nights.

And a slight case of heartburn.

If you had gone to H & R Block, on the other hand, you could have relaxed while someone else figured out your return. Quickly and confidentially. Probably unlike any way you've ever done it before.

And, when you figure your own, you may be entitled to deductions you're not taking and taking deductions you're not entitled to. For instance, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? Or, that if your income increased over the last few years, you may save tax dollars by "income averaging"? And even if you do, would you know how to go about "income averaging" to begin with? Probably not. And there's no reason why you should. After all, you're an amateur when it comes to doing income tax.

You see, when it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H & R Block. We have over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained personnel. They're warm and friendly people who are anxious to help you. They'll sit you down over a free cup of coffee and show you some things about your income tax that you might never have known existed.

Furthermore, if your return is audited, we will accompany you, at no extra cost, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative.

This means that H & R Block is ready to offer you year 'round tax service for just one low fee a year, with no extra charge for audits and estimates.

H & R Block's charges start at $5 and the average cost was under $12.50 for the 7 million families we served last year.

Which is somewhat less than what you paid.

Not to mention the fact that aggravation isn't tax deductible.

And we are.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

H&R Block.

The income tax people.

The student could not wait to leap from his chair to see how the professor was going to play the six-spade contract. After all, the student had bid the slam without knowing whether there would be a play for it.

When he saw the professor's cards he knew he had made a bad bid. Hopefully he watched to see what, if anything, the professor could do to save the sinking ship.

East won the first trick with the 10 of hearts and continued the suit. The professor ruffed high; played a couple of rounds of trumps; led a diamond to the ace; ruffed a diamond and ran off all his trumps but one.

By this time West had discarded two diamonds and three clubs and East had thrown one diamond and a bunch of hearts. Dummy still held three clubs and a diamond.

Then the professor led a low club; went up with dummy's ace; dropped East's singleton king and scored the slam.

"How did you work that?"

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB Split Heart Sound Can Be Normal

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Can you explain what the term "split second sound" means in reference to the heart? Is it serious or similar to a heart murmur? Is heredity important in this condition?

Dear Reader—There are two main heart sounds. Put your ear to someone's chest over the heart and you will hear the lub-dub, lub-dub of the heart beat. The lub is the first sound and the dub the second sound. Actually, each of these sounds has two parts. The first sound is from the closing of two valves between the upper and lower chamber of the heart, one on each side, right and left. These valves close to prevent blood from rushing backward when the lower heart chambers are contracting to pump blood to the body and lungs.

The second heart sound occurs when the heart stops ejecting blood and the valves to the two big arteries from the heart close. One artery is the pulmonary artery to send blood to the lungs and the other is the aorta to send blood to the rest of the body. These valves close to prevent blood from running back into the heart.

The first part of the second sound is from the closure of the valve in the aorta and the second part from the closure of the valve in the pulmonary artery. When these valves close at the same time, there is only one audible second sound—dub. If there is a delay in closure of one of these valves, usually the one in the pulmonary artery, the second sound will be split—that is, you can hear the sound of closure of the aortic valve before you hear the sound of closure of the pulmonary valve.

In many normal young people this occurs normally and can be demonstrated in different phases of breathing. This is a normal split second sound. It doesn't mean a thing.

When the time for the splitting is abnormally long or if there is some unusual relationship to breathing, it can be an important clue to a defect in the heart. Thus, like murmurs that you asked about, it can be unimportant or it can be very important and only by knowing the complete medical picture can one be sure if it has any significance or not.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My doctor tells me I have hyperinsulinism. Is that the same thing as hypoglycemia or is hyperinsulinism a lesser degree of low blood sugar?

Dear Reader—They are all the same thing. Increased amounts of insulin (hyperinsulinism) cause a decrease in glucose (hypoglycemia) in the blood, commonly referred to as low blood sugar.

Frustrated Egypt Suspended Between War and Peace

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Egyptian frustration with being suspended between war and peace has boiled to the surface for the second time in a month, this time at Cairo University.

Several hundred engineering students at the university, which has a total enrollment of 5,000, went on strike Tuesday. They demanded military training to fight Israel.

They also rejected a political solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict and called on the government to strike at U.S. oil interests in the Middle East.

The naming of a new Egyptian Cabinet Monday by President Anwar Sadat appeared to be the immediate cause of the strike. "Preparing the home front for battle does not come by changing governments but by reorganizing the people and arming student militia," a statement from the strikers said.

A Beirut specialist on Egyptian affairs said the students were angry because, although the new Cabinet has been charged publicly with preparing the country for confrontation with Israel, "it is in fact designed to facilitate continued efforts for a peaceful settlement."

"It appears the main purpose of the new change is to bring in elements which will inject badly needed new blood into the administration while minding their own business and not asking too many questions about high policy matters," the specialist said.

Unrest at Cairo University apparently has been building since a speech by Sadat Jan. 13 and followed riots at soccer stadiums in Cairo and Mehalla al Kobra on Christmas Eve in which nearly 100 persons were injured.

Cairo residents said that although the riots started over the referees' decisions, they developed into an explosion of public frustration at Sadat's postponement of his "year of decision," a move he attempted to explain in his Jan. 13 speech.

The Egyptian leader said he had given orders for a resumption of hostilities in the first week of December, then had to withdraw them because the Soviet Union was busy with the India-Pakistan war.

But Sadat also said that although Egypt was preparing for war, the door still was not closed to a peaceful settlement. It is this suspension between war and peace, this apparent indecision, that many Egyptians, especially students, find so frustrating.

Soviet Fishing Ships Heading for Adak

By STEVE WEINER
Associated Press Writer
JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Two Soviet fishing vessels accused of violating U.S. waters are plowing through Bering Sea back ice with their Coast Guard escort towards Adak Island and an uncertain reception by federal legal authorities.

Coast Guard spokesmen said Russians aboard the 362-foot factory ship Lamut, flagship of an 80-vessel Soviet herring fleet, and the stern trawler Kolyvan abruptly agreed Wednesday to leave the St. Matthew Island area after more than a day of delay.

Accompanied by the icebreaker Storis, the two Soviet vessels transferred excess crew members to nearby Russian boats and took on water before beginning the 600-mile voyage to the Aleutian Islands naval station. They are due there Friday.

Both were taken into custody late Monday by the Storis about 12 miles from St. Matthew, some 200 miles west of the Alaska mainland. They were accused of conducting illegal fishery support activity within the U.S. 12-mile fishery zone.

But G. Kent Edwards, the U.S. attorney for Alaska, said in Anchorage he did not know if the ships and their officers would be charged formally.

Edwards said the Coast Guard had not provided a detailed report of the seizure, an action that at one time led to authorization for the Storis to fire a warning shot across the Lamut's bow.

Edwards said that if charged with illegal fishery support activity and convicted, the ships' commanding officers could be fined up to $100,000 each and imprisoned for a year, and the ships confiscated.

Edwards and the Coast Guard said the case could be the first in which a foreign vessel was charged with illegal support activity rather than actual fishing.

The Russians contended they were within the 12-mile limit because of bad weather.

Beefed up units of armed guards were aboard both Russian ships as the trip to Adak began. Spokesmen said Vladimir Artemov, the fishing fleet's civilian commander, and Igor Bobtuk, the Lamut's master, were being detained aboard the Storis.

The two men were taken aboard the U.S. vessel Tuesday after the Lamut attempted to escape but was outmaneuvered by the icebreaker in frozen waters. The escape attempt brought the authorization for the Storis to shoot across the bow if necessary.

The three ships drifted for most of Wednesday about 20 miles from St. Matthew, while what spokesmen said were "certain diplomatic talks" were conducted. Parallel negotiations were under way in Washington.

Apparently as a direct result of the talks, the Soviets agreed to follow the Storis' orders.

Richmond Is Denied Delay Democrats Advertise for Campaign Funds

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A full-page ad declaring "the Democratic party is just about broke" and appealing for funds to "help assure you of a choice of candidates in 1972" will greet newspaper readers in about 10 cities in early February.

The ads are the first step in a double-barreled fund-raising campaign being mapped by Democratic party leaders here to start paying off their $9.3-million 1968 debt and begin building a fund to finance the 1972 race.

The second step: Fund-raising appeals for "the party of your choice" to be sent with telephone and other bills, provided those businesses go along.

The new campaign, unveiled in an interview by Treasurer Robert S. Strauss of the Democratic National Committee, is the party's answer to congressional rejection of the plan to give each major party $20.8 million through a $1-per-taxpayer checkoff on income tax returns.

The newspaper ads, planned for New York, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Washington, Louisville and some smaller cities, will cost about $45,000. Strauss hopes they'll at least recover the cost and provide a list of contributors who can be reached again in the fall.

The ads carry the notice that the new campaign-financing bill, which cleared the House Wednesday, provides up to a $12.50-per-person credit or a 50-per-person tax deduction for political contributions.

As for the plan to put bipartisan fund-raising appeals into the envelopes in which Americans receive phone or credit-card bills, Strauss said he discussed it with representatives of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and a major oil company.

"They haven't said 'no' yet," he said.

Strauss said that since he became party treasurer in March 1970, the national committee has paid all its regular bills. But it still has to contend with the 1968 debt and the stockpiling of funds for the 1972 campaign.

One of the major items in the debt is nearly $1.5 million owed AT&T and its subsidiaries for phone service. Strauss said a telephone company official visited him this week asking for a plan for payment of that debt plus payments in advance for phone service at the party's July nominating convention in Miami Beach.

"I told them there was no way that we could repay the debt, but that we've been good customers," Strauss said.

He added that he plans to pay 20 per cent of the estimated $100,000 cost of convention phone service well in advance and that the total "will be substantially paid for before the convention."

Perishes in House Fire

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — George Johnson, 45, of near Paragould died in a fire at his home south of Paragould Wednesday afternoon, authorities said.

Authorities said the fire apparently started about 1 p.m. but was not discovered until about an hour later due to dense fog in the area.

The cause of the fire was not known.

STEP FORWARD for the blind is a "cable cane" which folds into the compact eight-inch bundle at upper right. Developed at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Sensory Aids Evaluation and Development Center, it is constructed of aluminum tubing segments containing a steel cable which is pulled tight to keep the extended cane rigid.

Court Denies Fee Challenge

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Supreme Court denied Wednesday a petition Kenneth C. Coffelt of Jacksonville had filed challenging the increase from $2 to $17 in the license fee charged Arkansas attorneys.

The denial was set forth in a per curiam order, which reflects a unanimous court decision.

The court announced Nov. 15, 1971, through an order that, effective Jan. 1 of this year, the fee would be increased to support a fulltime executive secretary to the Committee on Professional Conduct.

Taylor Roberts, 51, a retired FBI agent and attorney who is a native of Little Rock, has been hired as executive secretary, succeeding Paul Johnson, a Little Rock lawyer who had been handling a part-time job.

Coffelt, also an attorney, filed a petition and brief on Dec. 16 asking that the court's fee increase order be set aside on four grounds:

- That the new fee was larger than was necessary.
- That the court lacked the authority to make and enforce the order.
- That the order was contrary to the Contract and Due Process clauses of state and federal constitutions.
- That the order should not take effect until approved by a vote of a majority of the state's licensed attorneys.

The court said that Coffelt's first point was offered "without supporting facts and apparently without investigation."

As to Coffelt's other three points, the court said that Amendment 28, adopted in 1928, gave the court authority to "make rules regulating the practice of law and the professional conduct of attorneys at law."

Warrants for Black Students

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP)—Deputy Pros. Atty. Carroll Ray of Marianna said Wednesday that warrants for the arrest of black students who participated in a sit-down demonstration at Lee High School here last Thursday are being issued.

Ray said that about 200 students would be charged with disrupting school activities.

He said the state law under which the youths will be charged allows a penalty of a $200 fine or six months in jail or both.

Between 200 and 250 black students sat down in the halls and the principal's office last week and presented 14 demands for changes to school officials. Police removed the students from the school grounds after the blacks refused to disperse.

Kissenger's Role Has Sparked Controversy

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. policy toward India and Pakistan has sparked a new round of controversy within Washington officialdom about Henry A. Kissinger's role as President Nixon's master planner and executor of global strategy.

"Henry can sound imperious when he's talking to lower ranking officials, but he's not like that at meetings of the full National Security Council," said one insider who did not want to be named.

A taste of how Kissinger sounds in private was disclosed when columnist Jack Anderson made public secret deliberations of a council subgroup discussing the Indian-Pakistani affair. Publication helped fuel the most recent controversy about Kissinger.

Another insider said of Kissinger, "There's a suspicion that he has overstepped his bounds." But, he added, he has no proof of any presidential loss of confidence in his national-security adviser.

Whatever their opinions, Washington officials widely agree that it is Nixon who makes the big foreign-policy decisions, and not Kissinger, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, or any other subordinate.

But from his first days in the White House three years ago,

Kissinger, 48, seemingly tireless, incisive, professionally schooled in international affairs and perceiving the world through the lenses of a big-power strategist, has been a target of potshots from bureaucrats.

Some picture him as arrogant and high-handed—"He does more talking than listening"—and as more interested in cranking his own views into the advice that goes to the President than in adopting others'.

Defenders say the former Harvard professor has done a brilliant job in helping Nixon achieve massive foreign-policy turns in three years. They attribute the criticism to bureaucratic sensitivities and over-worked junior aides.

Sea Lions May Make History

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Calif. (AP) — A trio of sea lions will swim its way into medical history in the waters off this sun-drenched resort island.

Diving long and deep, the sea lions will carry electronic sensors that ferret out secrets of their adaptation to the underwater world.

The secrets will be analyzed by University of Southern California physiologists who wonder how man might cope better with the stresses of an alien environment. The scientists know that as man extends his reach beneath the sea, it's imperative he understand his responses to the underwater environment.

devices which connect to the sensors and monitor changes in the cardiovascular system.

When a diver jumps into the water, sometimes deadly stresses develop.

The heartbeat slows and becomes irregular. The heart can become dangerously gorged with blood. Gases in the air in the lungs dissolve in the blood but can turn to bubbles if the diver ascends too rapidly, causing the crippling and sometimes fatal bends.

But a sea lion can hold its breath, dive to 750 feet, swim around several minutes and then zip back to the surface, all effortlessly. To do this, he slows his heartbeat to as much as one-tenth of normal. Blood vessels in the "exercising muscles" and near the skin pinch off. The lungs collapse, preventing undesirable gas exchange with the blood.

The scientists want to know how the sea lion makes such changes.

"We're a long way from definitive answers," Stevens said. "But we've found these little animals have a great deal to tell us and we're just beginning to scratch the surface."

Difference Between Cuba, China Listed

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The standard administration explanation for the differing U.S. policies for Cuba and China is, as President Nixon stated it, that "Cuba is engaged in a constant program of belligerence toward the United States."

The difference regarding China, the President said recently, is that "at this particular time, we have some evidence, that the Chinese are now ready to talk about their role in Asia and our role in Asia."

But other reasons are outlined privately by some administration officials, reasons that more nearly mirror the reality of world politics and special U.S. interests.

This is almost self-evident as the Chinese continue their direct military and economic aid to North Vietnam, accompanied by continued verbal attacks on the U.S. role in Southeast Asia.

Samantha has blood pressure sensors implanted in her chest and abdomen. During experiments she swims in the sea wearing a harness with a box. The box is filled with electronic and Taiwan.

Whether or not Nixon chooses to call this "belligerence," it is clear he feels important national gains are to be achieved by seeking a diplomatic relaxation with Peking. It is equally clear he sees no percentage at this time in improving U.S. relations with Fidel Castro's government.

In fact, the President can point to his constant, strong opposition to an aggressive Communist regime in Cuba in an effort to ease the sting of conservative attacks on his new China policy.

Internationally, by snubbing Castro and playing up charges of Cuban revolutionary intent, Nixon is able to maintain leverage with Western Hemisphere nations and obtain their support on other issues.

Administration officials, in acknowledging these positions, add that Castro still is a threat to peace in Latin America and deserves the U.S. hostility. They say he has not changed his goals of sparking revolution throughout the hemisphere.

The officials deny any serious weakening of the anti-Castro stand ten years ago by the Organization of American States, which imposed mandatory sanctions against any diplomatic and economic dealings with Cuba.

Even the Soviet role in Cuba brings no alarm to administration officials who are convinced Moscow is not threatening U.S. strength in the area. And they say relations between Russia and Cuba are not at their best, with Castro fighting any overwhelming Soviet influence on his government.

Thus, U.S. experts say, there is no reason for the United States to make any overtures aimed at driving a wedge between Moscow and Havana.

All in all, that attitude marks the general U.S. feeling about Cuba: The Castro government serves more purpose by being kept at arm's length. And, until Washington stands to gain, there will be no China-like moves toward conciliation with Cuba.

Medical Deductions Should Be Claimed

By RAY DE CRANE
Almost everyone who itemizes his deductions should be able to claim a medical deduction.

One-half of the cost of medical insurance premiums (to a limit of $150) are immediately deductible as a medical expense. This could include the cost of Blue Cross, Blue Shield, private medical and health insurance, and for those over 65, the cost of the Medicare deductions from their Social Security checks.

For all other medical expenses, no deduction is permitted until the total of such expenses exceeds 3 per cent of adjusted gross income. Then the deduction is the excess over the 3 per cent figure.

Whenever you itemize your medical deductions always be sure to include the remainder of your health insurance premiums which was not immediately deductible.

Medicines and drugs are included in your tabulation to the extent their cost exceeds one per cent of adjusted gross income.

Medical expenses to be deductible with but one notable exception must be for the taxpayer, spouse and his dependents. The exception is for someone whose chief support you furnish and who could be claimed as a dependent but for the fact he had gross income of $675 or more.

The exception could be an elderly parent whose chief support you furnish. You might not be able to claim the parent as a dependent because he or she had income of $675 or more. But you could include in your medical expense tabulation any medical payments made for the parent.

Heart patients whose doctor prescribes a quantity of whisky daily may include the cost of whisky taken for medicinal purposes as a medical expense.

In the category of contributions list all cash contributions made to your church or to any recognized charitable institution.

This will generally include United Appeal or Torch drives, health funds, and any other nonprofit, charitable or educational organization.

Gifts to needy individuals, no matter how worthy the cause, are never deductible on your federal income tax return.

GNP Will Hit $2 Trillion

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The chief economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday the gross national product will hit $2 trillion by 1980.

Dr. Carl H. Madden, in Minneapolis to address a meeting of businessmen, said the remainder of the 1970s will bring "strong growth." He said that with an expected average inflation rate of 3.1 per cent during the first half of the decade and 3 per cent in the second half, much of the growth will be "real."
